More Money in Hogs

Worms are the pests that cut down your stock profits. They keep your pigs from thriving, stunt the little ones, affect your brood sows and the size and vigor of their litters. Some hogs with worms will eat their heads off and not gain a pound; others will gain slowly, many die and if Cholera breaks out in your neighborhood, the worm infested hogs are first to take it and almost sure to die.

Read what E. C. Stone, Peoria, Ill., Sec. American Hampshire Swine Record Ass., Pres. Illinois Swine Breeders' Association says—
"I find that Sal-Vet is the most perfect worm exterminator on the market today. It will positively do all that you claim for it. There is nothing within my knowledge as good and reliable as Sal-Vet."

Said by

SAL-VET

The Great Worm Destroyer and Conditioner

Sal-Vet is a medicated stock salt. Stops all losses from worms quickly. No pay if it fails. No drenching, or dosing, just put a supply where your hogs can run to it freely and they will doctor themselves. You will make more money from hogs if you use Sal-Vet. Thousands have proven it. We carry Sal-Vet in 6 sizes of packages from 75c up. Come in and get a package to try.

Fire Damages Bonne Terre House

Fire broke out in the Bonne Terre house above the depot Friday morning shortly after midnight and before it could be extinguished had badly damaged the interior of the building, since the fire started in the kitchen, it is supposed that the stove was the starting point.

When the fire failed to damage, water-covered and after the fire was subdued the whole house was practically in ruins. It was only by the help of railroad employees that the fire was stopped at all.

The building was insured but the damage has not yet been estimated. Boarders have found other lodging, but Mrs. Butler, proprietor of the place, still resides in the building.

Just a year ago last winter the same house was badly injured by fire in about the same manner.

School House Complete by Sep. 7th

Work on the new school house being erected in East Bonne Terre is progressing rapidly and if no unforeseen hindrance occurs, the house will be ready for use by September 7th. All the rough work on the building has been done and only the finishing touches remain to be added. The plastering remains to be done, the flooring is yet to be laid, the belfry yet to be built. The house is a three-room one story building with a concrete basement below. The population of East Bonne Terre requires only two rooms for school purposes, and the other will be used as a store room. The seats will arrive between now and September 15th, when the contract runs out.

President Gilmore of the Gilmore Plumbing Co., and their local representative, Theodore Tinholder, have been taking measurements for a furnace to be installed. The new location of the school house is adjoining the church house.

Bonne Terre Cleans Up with Leadwood in Tennis

The Leadwood team came over to Bonne Terre Saturday afternoon via Bull Moose and took a good dubbing at the hands of the home team, the sets being played on the court adjoining the club house.

Thursday was the first time this season that the Leadwood bunch had practiced this pastime having been forgotten so much that they had allowed the court to grow up in weeds, but a challenge at the hands of Bonne Terre woke them up to their opportunities and hence the matches.

Although handicapped by the absence from the game of their star, Firmin Haile, who is nursing a sprained ankle, the home boys went in to win and came out with best honors.

Scores: Turkey and Sellers won from Rhodes and Deremiah, 7-5.

THE FISH LAW INADEQUATE

Emmett C. Higgins, Deputy Game and Fish Warden, in a letter to the St. Louis Republic, has this to say in regard to the violations of the fish law:

"I note you devote considerable space to killing of fish with high-power rifles and dynamite. Now, I do not know what the other wardens are doing; I speak for myself. I have brought several cases up in different counties of this state. I have not yet found a prosecuting attorney who will prosecute them. They all say it is not violating of law to shoot fish. The specific way must be set out or the instrument or method of killing must be plainly stated in order to make it a crime. If it is a violation to kill fish with a gun, the state must so specify, and they cite references to bear them out. I call to mind a case I had a short time ago. I caught a prominent citizen killing fish with a high-power gun. His case was presented to the prosecuting attorneys who refused to bring the matter up in court. He told me if he was inclined to bring action, the judge of that court would throw it out, as he had talked to the judge, who told him it was no violation to shoot fish and he did not want such cases in his court. I went to another county and there presented the case to the prosecuting attorney of that county. He told me the same thing, and there was also a different judge in that circuit who held the same views as the first. I went to another county and found similar conditions there, only the prosecuting attorney went a step further and instructed all who cared to shoot fish to do so, as it was no violation of the law. A game warden is absolutely helpless. If a law is passed plainly stating in so many words that fish cannot be killed with guns then something can be done."

DON'T VOTE IT BLIND

Having always lived in the country we know the attitude of country voters toward constitutional amendments. No matter how well educated or how intelligent the average rural citizen may be, if there is a bad amendment offered that he is eager to kill he will "swat" the whole bunch. There may be other amendments offered that he is almost equally eager to see carry, but for fear of making a mistake he votes against every one and goes out from the booth with a virtuous feeling of having done his duty. This practice cannot be too strongly condemned. It doesn't show intelligence and it isn't good citizenship. No man will vote against every man on the ticket because one rascal happens to be in line. Neither should he vote against something else of real merit because it is necessarily in bad company. The man who is the right kind of a citizen will read every amendment carefully and vote upon them intelligently. And the rural voter should lead the procession.

There are a number of amendments to be voted upon in Missouri next November. While none is so decidedly objectionable to the farmer vote as single tax a few are bad enough and should be defeated. We expect to go into detail in discussing the amendments before election but there's time enough yet. One amendment the Missouri Ruralist is decidedly in favor of is the county unit on local option. If Missouri country people will vote for this amendment as they should it will make an entering wedge for state wide prohibition outside of possibly the three largest cities. The liquor forces will spend a barrel of money to defeat this amendment and there is abundant ground for suspicion that they have been the means of getting other amendments on the ballot that will influence voters to vote against all of them. Don't let the booze element fool you into helping defeat something you really want.—Missouri Ruralist.
